

OPTIMAL ASPECTS OF COMPUTER DESIGN OF ELECTRICAL NETWORKS

Summary – This article aims to show how to make optimal calculation due to the cost and the correct positioning of electric switching and cabling to connect the production lines and other receivers in the factory of cosmetics. A linear programming and evolutionary algorithm will be used as a tool. The conclusions will contain: an analyze and the results comparison obtained with the original project, which was built by the factory.