

JACEK KARPIŃSKI – INVENTOR OF THE PERSONAL COMPUTER

Summary – The paper is moving closer the figure of the outstanding Polish designer and the inventor as well as he/she is showing and a contribution of work is judging him into the development of the Polish and world computer science on the example of inventions created by him, in particular on the example of the first personal computer, of K- 202 minicomputer which the example of a novel solution being able to incite the market of computers to rebellion constituted. Because of it, that in times the Polish People's Republic which worked, in his inventions didn't suit authorities, they were trying to do a everything in order for his form to be as least well-known.