

ACTIVITY ORIENTED BUSINESS PROCESS MODELLING

Summary - This article describes business process as a collection of associated activities, which are executed in specified order. Author performs an analysis of the business process modelling notations. An example process has been designed and analysed within the most known business process modelling methods. All used methods are strong activity oriented.